Honorable Robert E. Hampton
Chairman, U. S. Civil Service Commission
Washington, D. C. 20415

Dear Mr. Hampton:

I have carefully reviewed your memorandum of 28 September and share, of course, the concern of the President and yourself in providing displaced Federal employees with job openings on a priority basis.

This Agency, as you know, has sustained rather significant reductions in our personnel strength in recent years, especially during Fiscal Year 1973. We are able, therefore, to contribute only in a limited way to considering for employment those adversely affected by Government personnel strength reductions. The number of positions we have in the United States field is small in number, and it is extremely doubtful whether we would be able to be of any real assistance in employing those persons affected other than those living or interested in being hired for positions in the Washington, D. C. Metropolitan area.

I can assure you that our Director of Personnel has been instructed to inform our recruiters located in the Washington area, as well as our personnel representatives in other regions of the United States, to give priority consideration, where possible, to those Federal employees who have been or expect to be displaced.

We appreciate your writing to us, and we will do everything we can to respond to your request.

Sincerely,

/s/ Vernon A. Walters

Jack:

General Walters has asked that an appropriate response be prepared for his signature. I realize that in the past the D/Pers has conducted practically all of the Agency's correspondence with the CSC. However, for some reason that is not entirely clear to me, the DDCI wants to respond to this one.

MEMORANDUM FOR HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS AND AGENCIES

In a recent memorandum to the members of the Interagency Economic Adjustment Committee the President mentioned the notable progress made in improving service to communities and to individuals adversely affected by Defense realignments. In the same memorandum, however, the President calls on all of us to give this program even greater priority, as follows:

"I am particularly concerned, as economic conversion takes place, that all Federal departments and agencies redouble their efforts to provide employment opportunities for displaced Federal employees. We cannot afford to lose talented and experienced personnel who qualify for existing vacancies."

In view of the strong Presidential concern, each department and agency is requested to immediately review current placement activities with a view to taking affirmative steps to provide additional jobs for displaced employees.

In order to carry out the mandate to redouble our efforts, it is imperative that you communicate the President's continuing concern to all your managers, both in Washington and the field, to assure that displaced employees are given priority consideration for job openings.

I would very much appreciate copies of communications to your managers on this subject.
